Re: proposed merger of Sirius and XM

Dear FCC:

As both a customer and stockholder, I am opposed to this merger. Consumers and stockholders alike are better served by two companies competing, as is shown by the tremendous innovation we have seen in receivers. The FCC should encourage the two companies to continue competing, to offer more niche radio programming rather than video, and to retain Sirius' satellite configuration which is better for rural consumers.

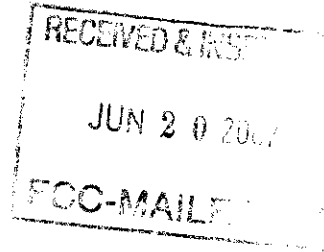

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern:

I believe that the proposed merger of Sirius Satellite Radio and XM Satellite Radio is not in the public interest because the proposed merger will create an anti-competitive marketplace and near monopoly in the United States
satellite radio marketplace.
